JFK To Review Troops Of The Cuban Brigade

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—More than 1,000 members of the liberated Bay of Pigs invasion brigade will put their best foot forward Saturday in a review for President Kennedy.

Will Parade

The 1,113 men, survivors of the April 1961 disaster and 20 months in Fidel Castro's jails, will parade before the President and Mrs. Kennedy and relatives, many of whom arrived Thursday.

Castro allowed 920 relatives to leave Cuba and promised to release 1,000 more. A Swiss diplomat in Havana said Friday Castro's offer to permit more Cubans to leave had been canceled.

A spokesman for the Cuban Families Committee, which spearheaded release of the prisoners, said the move by Castro was unexpected, if true.

Helicopter Arrival

The President and Mrs. Kennedy, vacationing at Palm Beach, Fla., planned to arrive by helicopter at the Miami Police Station at 10:15 a.m. and motor to the Orange Bowl for an inspection of Brigade 2506. The President will speak briefly, and Mrs. Kennedy, too, will address the crowd in Spanish.

The Kennedys will return to Palm Beach immediately after the brief ceremony.

Still Elated

Still elated over their release and refreshed, the unsuccessful Cuban invaders hailed the appearance of the President as a new rallying point.

"We'll go back to Cuba as soon as we get what is necessary," said Douglas L. Aguilera, a member of the brigade. "We all feel we'll get that support. Our morale is stupendously high."

"This is not the last time we are together," said one of the invasion leaders, Enrique Ruiz-Williams. He was one of the five top Cubans who visited the President in Palm Beach Thursday. They invited Kennedy to the stadium where they will present to him the brigade's combat flag, "the greatest treasure we possess."

To Be Televised

The Orange Bowl ceremony will be televised live by ABC. NBC will present a delayed showing at noon, CBS said it had not decided about televising the event.

It was learned that discreet conversations were taking place between Cuban and Swiss officials who are seeking the release of 21 Americans held in Cuban jails.

The Swiss Embassy has handed U.S. interests in Cuba since the United States broke diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Drunk Confesses Killing Grimes Sisters In 1956

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A prisoner about to be released after serving 60 days on a drunkenness charge confessed Friday to the 1956 slaying of the Grimes sisters in Chicago.

"Six years ago today I killed Barbara and Patricia Grimes, and I've been running ever since, sandy-haired Alfred Smith Lawless told police and newsmen.

Seen Visions

"I see visions of those two girls all the time. All I think about lately is how I left them to die, stripped and naked on that snowbank in the woods. For years I've been running. I just had to tell somebody."

Lawless, 34, who said he is from Jamestown, Ky., said he had picked up the girls at a Chicago theater where an Elvis Presley picture was playing, molested them, choked and bound them, then threw them from an auto. The bodies of Barbara, 15, and Patricia, 13, were found in a ditch beside a country road southwest of Chicago Jan. 22, 1957. An autopsy showed the girls had frozen to death but failed to provide any clues as to how and why the girls had been left to die.

Girls Vanished

The girls vanished from their southside home in Chicago Dec. 28 after attending a movie they had seen several times before.

"I had to tell somebody about the murders, Lawless said. "I am scared that if I didn't I might do the same thing again to other innocent girls."

He said he had met the girls when they left the theater, adding: "I struck up a casual conversation. They agreed to go with me in my car to get hamburgers. I had never seen them before. He drove out to the country. Then I stopped the car and made love to them. I got scared, figured they might tell somebody about it. I had been drinking. It's fuzzy about how exactly I did it, but I remember taking off their clothes and leaving them in the snowbank."

Burned Their Clothes

"It seems like I knocked them unconscious somehow. I burned all their clothes, their slacks, blouses, coats and got rid of their shoes and purses. Then I got out of town."

"I went to Indiana, then Detroit. I've been all over the country running ever since."

Chicago detectives familiar with the case that shocked Chicago and the nation six years ago reported that Lawless had given a detailed account of the murders with an excellent description of the girls, including knowledge of Patricia's crooked toe and the clothing they wore at the time of their disappearance.

He was arrested in Los Angeles Nov. 14 on the drunkenness charge. He said he had come here about six months ago.

Detective Lt. John A. Tidyman called Lawless "a possible but not a probable suspect" in the Grimes case. He said Chicago authorities said they'll probably send out an officer to question Lawless.

Lawless said he got out of the Army in 1947 and afterward was in a mental institution for a time, the lieutenant reported. Lawless said his parents are dead and he has never been married. He is 5 feet 9½ and weighs 160.

Johnson Considered For Cabinet Post

HARRISBURG (AP)—Three Negroes were reported under consideration Friday by Gov.-elect William W. Scranton for one of his four unfilled cabinet posts.

The three are William R. Atkins, 37, of Rutherford Heights; William P. Young, 61, of Pittsburgh; and William D. Johnson, 36, of Stroudsburg.

The report came following an hour-long meeting yesterday between the governor-elect and a dozen Negro political leaders at Scranton's temporary headquarters in Harrisburg.

All the Negroes played key roles in Scranton's landslide triumph over Democrat Richardson Dilworth.

The four posts still to be filled are state police commissioner, secretary of banking, secretary of property and supplies and secretary of labor and industry.

One of the posts, secretary of property and supplies, is occupied by a Negro now — Andrew J. Bradley, an appointee of Gov. Lawrence.

But, the Negro leaders meeting with Scranton said they would endorse any one of the three names mentioned for any of the four cabinet posts still open.

Later, Scranton was asked whether any of the three men met the standard of qualifications which he has applied to all prospective cabinet appointees.

"They do," he answered, but refused to elaborate.

Scranton said he will appoint a Negro to his cabinet if the man is qualified, but he denied flatly promising to appoint a Negro.

Scranton also said he does not expect to complete his cabinet before the middle of next week. Originally, it was felt he would fill the open posts before the start of the 1963 legislature on New Year's Day.

The three Negroes mentioned as possibilities have widespread backgrounds in the field of politics and civic affairs.

Atkins, a Harrisburg real estate man, was with the state board of arbitration of claims under Republican Aud. Gen. Charles Smith, but was fired shortly after the Democrats took over in 1961. He is a native of Pittsburgh and a law school graduate.

Johnson is a councilor director of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce and immediate past president of the junior chamber. He operates a service station auto repair center, and was a Scranton campaign aide.

Young, a native of Orange, N.J., works in the personnel department of the Lockhart Iron & Steel Co. and was an unsuccessful candidate twice for city council in Pittsburgh.

Katanga Police Open Fire On U.N. Forces In Elisabethville

15 Persons Injured In Elisabethville

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Katangan police, ignoring cease-fire orders from their superiors, attacked U.N. forces with machine-gun and mortar fire in Elisabethville Friday.

Reports from the scene said the tempo of hostilities had increased amid indications that the U.N. troops had begun returning the fire. A Red Cross official said the Katanga police had gone mad.

The U.N. command said seven U.N. soldiers had been wounded since Katanga forces launched the attacks around the secessionist Katanga Province capital Thursday night. Eight civilians also were reported wounded.

The United Nations had reported that U.N. troops were holding their fire while President Moise Tshombe of Katanga sought unsuccessfully to get his forces to halt their firing.

But a later report from AP correspondent John Latz in Elisabethville said the sound of battle had become more intense as the day progressed and that it appeared the U.N. troops were returning Katanga forces' fire.

A U.N. announcement said the U.N. forces had cleared police roadblocks around Elisabethville and captured a Katangan police headquarters in the Karavia section. It did not say whether the U.N. forces had to fight to attain these objectives.

However, a terse U.N. report from Elisabethville reporting a Katangan position captured and adding "cleaning up operations are continuing" was seen as a sign U.N. troops were employing force.

G. C. Senn, International Red Cross representative in Elisabethville, reported Katangan guerrillas out of hand near a smelting plant of Union Miniere, the huge European-owned mining complex in Katanga.

"They (the Katangan police) are mad," Senn said. "They are now killing their own men."

He said the Katangan police had fired wildly on African townships, wounding six African and two European civilians.

Robert Gardiner, chief of U.N. Congo operations, told newsmen he did not know whether the police attacks were what he called "round three" in Tshombe's resistance to U.N. pressure to bring Katanga back under the control of the central government at Leopoldville. Katanga seceded after the Congo had gained independence from Belgium two years ago.

For all three parties involved in the Congo—the United Nations, the central government in Leopoldville, and Tshombe's Katanga—the stakes are high.

The United Nations is trying to save its prestige in Africa; the Leopoldville government faces collapse through continued Katangan separation; and Tshombe faces a loss of $40 million a year in mining royalties if he surrenders.

Crash Victim Dies

THE collision of a tractor-trailer and a station wagon on Route 611, two miles north of Tobyhanna, on Wednesday resulted in the death of a 14-year-old boy yesterday in Allentown General Hospital.

Walter Baginski, of 316 Grace St., Old Forge, died in the hospital from severe head injuries and multiple body injuries. His uncle, Robert Bergamino, 24, same address, was instantly killed when he was thrown from the station wagon and the trailer of the tractor-trailer overturned on him.

The Baginski youth had been taken to the Allentown Hospital to undergo head surgery. He was first taken to Monroe County General Hospital. He had been in critical condition since the crash.

The driver of the tractor-trailer, Harry Weintraub, 55, of 1 Bayless Ave., Binghamton, N. Y., was taken to the local hospital for treatment of back injuries. He was discharged Thursday.

Bergamino, employed by Hugo Borzetti, a Scranton cigar vending machine operator, apparently was returning to Scranton after servicing machines in the Stroudsburg area when the crash occurred. The highway was covered with ice and snow at the time.

Administration Discussing 1963 Aid To Education Bill

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze said Friday the Kennedy administration is ironing out a 1963 aid to education bill and health care legislation it hopes will "be more palatable" to the opposition.

Same Philosophy

He said, however, that the programs basically will have the same underlying philosophy of the Kennedy measures that founded in the last Congress.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy plan to fly to Miami Saturday for an Orange Bowl ceremony in honor of the Cuban survivors of the Bay of Pigs invasion.

Pierre Sulinger, White House press secretary, said the President will make a brief speech which will be telecast nationally, and the First Lady will address the Cubans in their native Spanish.

The recently freed Cuban freedom fighters said they will present to Kennedy "the greatest treasure we possess"—their combat flag.

The Kennedys expect to return to Palm Beach immediately after the special ceremonies.

Budget Is High

Celebrezze told newsmen the Health, Education and Welfare Department's budget will be higher than the current year's appropriation of $5,086,836,000 but mainly because of what he called built-in programs previously passed by Congress and continuing at increasing costs.

The secretary said he hopes that the new Congress, convening Jan. 9, will go along with Kennedy's proposals for what he said are vitally needed programs in education and medical care for the aged.

Kennedy sat down with his advisers and Welfare Department experts for a 2½-hour session at his ocean-front vacation villa to go over some of the most controversial items tagged for congressional action in 1963.

U.S. Cruise

The weather remained cloudy and overcast, but the chief executive was still able to get in his usual afternoon cruise aboard the presidential yacht Honey Fitz.

Kennedy started off his round of conferences on the welfare program Friday by swearing in his new budget director, Kermit Gordon, a former member of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Gordon took the oath from Mayor Claude Reese of Palm Beach. As budget director he replaced David E. Bell, now foreign aid administrator.

Before returning to Washington Celebrezze predicted a good, constructive educational program on all levels but would not go into any details.

The big difficulty in getting the education program through Congress, he said, is due to two basic issues, religious and racial.

He said there will be some changes in the health program, but it will still be tied to Social Security. He said he was not free to go into detail.

Scranton, Ike Confer

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former president Dwight D. Eisenhower told Gov.-elect William W. Scranton Friday he is ready to help the incoming administration "on an advisory or a consulting basis."

The former president and Scranton met for 75 minutes in the Eisenhower office on the campus of Gettysburg College.

Scranton, talking to newsmen after the meeting, said two dominant themes were aired in the discussion:

—"his personal approach to me (Scranton) about his usefulness to my administration," —"the necessity for a strong, conservative fiscal policy both in the state and in the nation."

Scranton defined "conservative" to mean such things as "balanced budget and pay-as-you-go policy."

Eisenhower bid Scranton goodbye at the door, but made no comments to newsmen.

Scranton said that Eisenhower endorsed his announced plan of forming a committee of 100,000 Pennsylvanians to spread the state's industrial image across the nation.

Scranton said he did not ask Eisenhower to actively serve on the committee, but that Eisenhower had offered assistance in securing members for the group.

The nature of the committee was discussed, said Scranton, but no names were mentioned as likely candidates. He added that Eisenhower "liked the approach very much."

Blasting Holes In Wall Is Futile And Dangerous

BERLIN (AP) — Blasting holes in the Communist wall by West Berliners was assailed Friday as "futile and dangerous" by the U.S. commandant.

Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, retiring after 20 months in the city, was commenting on the 14th blast since the Reds erected the wall 16 months ago.

The explosion early Friday was the biggest yet. But it ripped only small hole three feet square in the barricade while smashing 600 windows in neighboring buildings in West Berlin.

No one has ever escaped as the result of the explosions, and they have done relatively minor damage to the wall itself.

Western authorities are concerned because of the extensive damage the blasts have done to property in the West and the possible danger to human life.

The winter night was ripped by the detonation at the intersection of Jerusalem Strasse and Linden Strasse. There were two other explosions in this area earlier this month.

The Communist regime made its usual protest statement, charging "provocation against the state border" and said the bombers "gambled with West Berliners' lives."

The blasts have been deplored in the past by West Berlin city leaders but not in such strong terms as Watson used.

The retiring American commandant said even though he understood the psychology behind the attacks, they were "gestures of ultimate futility that do no good."

American Arms Arrive In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The first American arms to arrive by ship will reach India early next month, U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith reported Friday.

His announcement came as Indian papers reported a massive Red Chinese military buildup in Tibet.

Galbraith told a news conference in Calcutta that two ships carrying arms from the United States will arrive Jan. 4 and Jan. 8.

Despite the silence of guns on the Himalayan front, press reports said the Red Chinese were strengthening their forces in Tibet.

"Tibet is being rapidly militarized and is being turned into an arsenal," one paper said in a dispatch from Tezpur, India army corps headquarters town in the northeast.

The Red Chinese were reported massing forces in the Chumbi Valley of southern Tibet pointing toward the tiny Himalayan states of Sikkim and Bhutan and around Rudok at the western end of Tibet.

The Cleveland dispute centers on Teamster demands for better working conditions at the Plain Dealer and demands by the American Newspaper Guild for stronger union security, particularly among commercial workers, at The Cleveland Press, a Scripps-Howard publication.

Both unions are seeking wages increases from both newspapers.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, in New York to help in negotiations aimed at settling a longshoremen's strike that has tied up East and Gulf Coast ports, said he had no formal plans to reenter the newspaper negotiations.

The New York strike, by Local 6 of the International Typographical Union, AFL-CIO, has idled some 20,000 newspaper workers from many crafts and has cost millions in lost wages and revenues to the publishers.

Discipleship

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 28:19-20; Acts 16:15; Romans 1:14-17; I Corinthians 2:1-5; Ephesians 4:11-16, 25-32; Colossians 1:24-29.

Christ's final instruction to His apostles was to go forth all over the world, "teaching (men) to observe all that I have commanded you." He told them this at His Ascension on the Mount of Olives. — Matthew 28:19, 20.

The greatest of all disciples in Christian history was the Apostle Paul, who carried the message of Christ to vast new territories. On his second missionary journey, he was bidden by a vision to cross over to Europe with Luke. — Acts 16:9-15.

The gifts of God are many and varied, even in the way they enable men to spread the word. Some are talented teachers; others can appeal to the emotions as evangelists; still others, directly influenced, were prophets. — Ephesians 4:11-16.

One way in which we can all serve as Christ's disciples is by example, by performing our everyday chores as Christ would have us do them, and treating others with gentleness. — Ephesians 4:25-32. GOLDEN TEXT: Matthew 28:19, 20.

Religion Today

Doctors Condemn Smoking

American Protestantism, which in past eras seldom condemned smoking, today seldom deals officially with the subject. It's now the doctors who issue the warnings.

There might have been grounds for churches to claim, "We told you so." But this hasn't been their general policy, mainly because most of them had concluded that to brand smoking as evil was not well-grounded Christianity. And they don't claim competence in the arena of medical experimentation.

However, unlike many major denominations that largely have dropped the early hard-line preaching against tobacco, one big communion, the Methodist Church, still retains an old rule on the matter: No smoking for clergymen.

The regulation has been a long-smouldering issue in the church, and amid the recent scientific findings on the effects of cigarette smoking, it still is kicking up sparks.

"The Methodist legislation regarding the use of tobacco by ministers is bad legislation," says the Rev. Keith A. Leach, a Chicago Methodist pastor. "It is completely out of keeping with New Testament principles."

However, the Rev. Dr. Orlo Strunk Jr., dean of the church's West Virginia Wesleyan College of Buckhannon, W.Va., says: "The Methodist position on the use of tobacco is certainly a sound one, despite the jeers, signs and winks of the sophisticates and other-directed. But it is valid because it draws its strength from theological roots."

Some other church bodies, including the Christian Scientists, Seventh-day Adventists, the Latter-day Saints and various Pentecostal groups, strongly and officially oppose smoking. Many Baptists also oppose it, but without any general legislative rules about it.

Among the major, main-line denominations, the 10-million-member Methodist Church, with its 25,000 clergymen, is unusual in keeping its specific antimoking law regarding its ministry.

Under its disciplines, a person must answer yes to the following question to be eligible for Methodist ordination:

"Are you willing to make a complete dedication of yourself to the highest ideals of the Christian ministry . . . and to bear witness thereto by abstinence from all indulgences, including tobacco, which may injure your influence?"

Russia Gets Plant

VIENNA (AP) — The giant state-owned Austrian iron and steel plant, Voest, announced it will build in the Soviet Union a steel plant with production capacity of two million tons a year. The Soviets, who first offered to pay half in currency and half in raw materials, finally agreed to pay 75 per cent in cash.

Watchnight Service

A Salvation Army

BRIGADIER Olga Warth, veteran Salvation Army officer, now living in retirement in New York City will be the guest speaker at all the Sunday services and special New Year's Eve services at the Salvation Army Citadel.

The brigadier was formerly assistant field secretary for the Eastern Territory. She had been stationed at Scranton, as divisional youth secretary and was responsible for the youth work in the Division of which the East Stroudsburg Corps is part.

She also was in charge of the Youth Camp at Forks, Pa., operated by The Salvation Army where many local Young People attended.

She will speak in the Sunday

Boy's Death An Accident

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — The death of a boy in a collision of a car and a runaway truck was ruled accidental yesterday by a McKean County coroner's jury. Mark Gooding, 3, of Bradford was killed Dec. 20 when the truck hit the car he was riding in on steep South Avenue in Bradford. His brother and their maternal grandparents were injured.

morning Holiness service at 11:00 a.m. and the evening Salvation meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Special services will be conducted on Monday evening with a praise service scheduled at 7:30 p.m. followed by a fellowship hour and a Watch-night service at 11:00 p.m. to run through to the new year.

A communique from Territorial Commander Commissioner Holland French in New York City informed Salvationists that "I have approved the recommendations of the Territorial Evangelism Commission to retain the 'battle cry' of our 1962 Crusade—'Militant for Christ'—feeling it has relevance as we face present moral and spiritual issues and new challenges."

The general lethargy and lack of virile Christian witness in many areas continues to call for Military action. The "Militant for Christ" theme or "battle cry" will be meaningful and purposeful as we fight for the Lord on all fronts in 1963. The new year Spiritual Crusade will be launched by Brigadier Warth in the late service. A signing of dedication and covenant will take place at the close of the watch-night service. The regular schedule of youth and senior activities will resume on Wednesday.

Today's Lesson:

Discipleship

THE SUBJECT of discipleship is not one of merely historical interest, or even one which affects a small, but dedicated minority who make missionary work their profession. It is a subject of vital concern to every Christian at all times.

Discipleship is an integral part of Christianity. As witnesses to Christ, we should all be endeavoring to preach His way, by example, by deed, by prayer, by gifts, by every means.

Christ Himself commanded us to do so.

In Matthew 28:19-20, we see how this was Christ's last command to His apostles, at the time of His ascension, on the Mount of Olives east of Jerusalem. He sent them to make all nations His followers, "teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you."

They were to give up anything and everything in order to serve Christ, for nothing else matters by comparison. They were to be baptized, thus giving a public and definite evidence that they had broken with their past lives, as men of nature, and entered into the regenerated life of Christians.

The greatest of all disciples was Paul, whose work spread wider and deeper and lasted longer than any other single missionary in Christian history. He, more than any other, was a pioneer for Christ.

In the passage from Acts we find once more the familiar story of the first European convert in Europe, Lydia. It was Paul who took the great message across to this new continent, in response to God's visionary directive.

Scientist To Broadcast Holiness Watchnight Services

SUNDAY morning from 7:30 to 8 a.m., a Christian Science program will be broadcast by Station WCAU, Philadelphia, on their radio "Church of the Air." The subject of the program is "The Kingdom of God Is Within You." Bernard C. Berry, Christian Science committee on publication for Pennsylvania, will be the speaker. Musical selections on the program have been pre-recorded by Frederick Jagel, soloist at The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass.

Many scholars have felt that it might have been a vision of Luke that Paul saw, as the "man of Macedonia." This is because there would have been no way of identifying a Macedonian from any other Greek, unless the man were known personally to Paul. Luke was a Greek, and perhaps from Philippi; he had also been in Paul's native city of Tarsus, as a medical student in the university, so it is quite possible that the two could have known each other previously. Furthermore, it was Luke who authored the Acts, and since he first uses here the pronoun "we," we know that he accompanied Paul on this journey.

There were four in Paul's party at this time. Paul was of very independent character, and it must have taken considerable persuasion on the part of Lydia the new convert, to make Paul and his party stay in her home, where they enjoyed luxury they would not know often.

As Paul points out many times, discipleship is not a luxurious path, but quite often one of privation and sacrifice.

Four times (in Ephesians 4:11-16, Romans 12:6-8, I Cor. 12:4-11 and 12:28-30 Paul lists the gifts of Holy Spirit. Only one gift appears in all four lists—that of prophecy.

In the passage assigned (Ephesians) he lists four gifts. The apostles are those who had seen Christ and witnessed to His resurrection; their authority in the Church was supreme. The prophets were men who spoke under the influence of the Spirit of God's messengers. Evangelists were less directly influenced and more continuous in their work. The teachers had the gift of explanation.

Holiness Watchnight Services

CAPTAIN Francis Patterson, former chaplain at Tobyhanna, Pa., will be the speaker at the Pilgrim Holiness Church, Stroudsburg, Monday at 10 p.m.

Capt. Patterson is home for a few weeks on Christmas leave from service in Germany. Many of his friends will want to hear him. He will also be speaking in the church Sunday at 10:45 a.m., and 7:30 p.m.

Parson To Parson

By Rod G. MacLeod

ANOTHER year to end and another to begin. Folks will be wishing one another "Happy New Year" and hopes will be high for the future.

This past year could have been the end of all years if the Cuban situation had been allowed to flame up into a nuclear war. Three short months ago we were on the brink of disaster. President Kennedy told us in a speech that the government had "written off more than 1,000,000 citizens as being killed in the first three minutes of an atomic war!"

We can thank the Lord that he has spared us from such a horror. We forget so soon the blessings bestowed on us. It would be fitting to remember to offer thanks to Him that this bitter cup has passed from us.

Standing on the brink of a new year one wonders at the reaction of other people. Some think it a time for hilarious gaiety and uninhibited pleasure, others, a small social time amid friends, and a very, very few attend a service in church.

Surely, there is pleasure in the warmth of friendship gathered together to "see the New Year in" and many memories can be shared. Just because we were fortunate enough to survive this year does not imply that the future weeks and months will be so happy. We pray that it will be a happy time for us all but merely wishing will not make it so. Would it not be wiser to contemplate our position in life with emphasis on the spiritual relations between us and our maker? The start of a new year is a good time for starting anew and correcting the faults that we know we have. We have no assurance that we will see the end of 1963—and it is not wise to take heed of this fact instead of acting as if we were going to live forever?

The Boy Scouts have as their motto "Be Prepared." This is a really good motto both for the present and the future. We purchase insurance in case of disaster and loss and yet neglect the "assurance" for our souls.

"Be Prepared" does not mean to put off until the last minute the preparations that should be done now. A true Christian is prepared for the needs of this world and the next. The most certain thing in this world is the fact that we are all going to leave it. Man, we are going on a space flight and not necessarily into orbit!

The start of a new year is a good time to start going to church. Even if you haven't darkened a church door for years—the walls won't crack, and the roof won't fall in—you will be just made most welcome. I know, I've tried it!

A very happy New Year to all—and let's be PREPARED for all the things that can happen, both good and bad.

Methodist Chaplains

Gather At Buck Hill Falls

METHODIST chaplains from the Northeastern United States are to participate in a spiritual retreat January 2-4 at Buck Hill Falls. They will come from military units, Veterans Administration hospitals, mental and penal institutions.

Some 50 men, many of them bringing their wives, are expected for the program, provided by the Methodist Commission on Chaplains in Washington, D. C. The purpose is to strengthen the chaplains through lectures, meditation and fellowship with others in similar work.

Speakers will be Bishop Fred Pierce Corson of Philadelphia, a member of the commission, and the Rev. Dr. Harry M. Taylor, professor of preaching and Biblical theology at Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington. Devotional leader will be the Rev. Dr. Fred H. Heather, associate secretary of the commission. The Rev. Dr. John R. McLaughlin, general secretary, also will participate.

This will be the first of four retreats this year, with others at Asilomar, Calif.; Gattinburg, Tenn., and Texoma, Okla.

Adventist Issues

Statement Of Thanks

PASTOR Bruce J. Fox and Chester P. Miller, missions director, for the local Seventh-day Adventist congregation issued a "Statement of Thanks" to the citizens of the Stroudsburgs and surrounding communities, today.

The church leaders said that "the people of our area have again demonstrated their heartfelt regard for needy humanity here at home and around the world."

The statement came as a result of the 59th Annual Ingathering Appeal of the church, when for the past five weeks volunteer workers visited area homes and received more than $3400, in funds which go toward extending a world ministry of welfare, disaster aid, educational, medical and spiritual services at home and around the world.

The church operates a chain of 2,339 health and welfare units in addition to 210 medical units in 195 countries around the world. All activities are coordinated with the master plans of civil authorities.

Checking Needed

In the labs, they test the intelligence of mice by observing how fast the animals learn not to repeat their mistakes. Our officials in Washington are more intelligent than mice, but it does seem to take a long time for them to learn from their own errors.

A White House advisory group has come up with the recommendation that the Federal government pour $2.8 billion into a program to step up the production of engineers and scientists in the nation's universities. Everybody knows we need lots of these fellows nowadays, but we've already tried to solve the problem with Federal money and failed.

Right after the Russians launched Sputnik, the Defense Education Act was passed, and hundreds of millions of U.S. money have been spent. The result was that the enrollment of engineers and scientists went down, not up.

American colleges graduated 52,000 engineers in 1950, and the number had dropped to 37,800 in 1960. It is still dropping.

President Kennedy is reported to have indorsed the report of his advisors in general terms, and he is expected to back legislation for the program. He shouldn't. The experiment already has been tried unsuccessfully. In the meantime, academic leaders have begun to express concern over the serious alterations forced on American education by the acceptance of Federal funds, research grants and the like.

Cities Without Papers

The lengthy strikes closing down newspapers in New York City and Cleveland have created a news famine for millions who daily turn to their favorite newspapers.

Not even with tremendously augmented coverage can television and radio replace the daily newspaper. There is little or no "in depth" treatment of the news. And local news can be covered only scantily at best. As a result, you might not even know that one of your friends had died.

And among the side effects of the strikes is the lack of advertising, missed both by the people and store managers. Residents of the two cities don't know which movie is playing where, even though the theaters have taken to the air in a big way. Opening a legitimate play in New York is murder without opening night reviews.

The Miami-Nebraska Gotham Bowl football game on Dec. 14, for which a crowd of 20,000 to 30,000 had been anticipated, drew 6,100.

Missing, too, are the editorials, sports, the columns and the comics, stock market quotations, specialized news, medical advice, crossword puzzles, entertainment reading, home-making and other woman-only news.

No help-wanted ads, no apartments for rent or houses for sale. A leading personnel agency in Manhattan says its job applicants have dropped to half since the strike began. Charitable appeals by the papers—notably the Fresh Air Fund of the N. Y. Herald Tribune and the Neediest Cases Fund of the N. Y. Times — have been hit especially hard.

The strikes have consequences far beyond their own communities. Bowater, the Canadian newsprint company, announced it would lay off 500 employees if the New York strike wasn't settled by Christmas, which, of course, is wasn't.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz on Dec. 19 warned that the New York strike might go on all winter. And there is speculation in newspaper circles that possibly three of the seven struck Manhattan-based dailies will not publish again should the strike be prolonged.

Eve Of More Holiday Driving

By John Chamberlain

I suppose I have done my share of fast driving in my life, but I am coming to hate the blow-the-man-down spirit which imbues all too many people once they get behind the wheel of a car.

Not so long ago I lost a nephew, a boy who had spent two years flying in jets in the Air Force, to a bit of driver carelessness. He had just returned to Portland, Ore., after a year spent at Thule in northern Greenland, and was killed a block away from his own home.

And last week-end two pretty and sparring twin girls, aged 15, who had been in my wife's modern dance classes, were killed outright in a collision on a slippery pavement.

So I hate careless drivers for the big sorrows they cause. I also hate them for smaller things. One cannot speak of the big catastrophes; they hit too close to one's heart. But one can talk of the little mistakes, if that is the word for them.

There are — or were — the five cats, for example, which our family has lost during the past few years in the road in front of our house in the country. The road is posted for twenty-five miles an hour, and there is hardly a self-respecting cat in the whole United States which couldn't dodge a car going at that safe speed. Nevertheless, the cats, on this twenty-five-mile-limit road, have been killed, which says something about the drivers.

You may say that a cat is only a dumb animal, and that something must intervene to keep the cat tribe in bounds, lest it overrun the earth. But cats get implicated with humans. Our 5-year-old son had just acquired a little black kitten six months old. The 5-year-old likes to play with big cats, but they won't stand still for him to stroke their fur the wrong way or pull their whiskers and tails.

The kitten was just made for him, for it would take any amount of rough-housing in good spirit and come back for more. Then, one night, a car got little Blackie. One couldn't explain it to the 5-year-old, who doesn't yet understand the finality of death. All he knows is that his pet is gone.

Before the kitten there were the other cats. There was the calico mother puss, which had a litter of four. She was killed early one morning by someone who was speeding on his way to work. We had to feed milk to the calico's four bereft offspring for many days with an eye-dropper. Amazingly, they all survived. But only two grew to adult cat-hood; the other two were killed in the road.

Back of the calico cat and her kittens there was the eleven-year-old Charcoal. Black with a white star on his chest, this particular cat was a philosopher among his kind. A dignified, live-and-let-live creature, old Charcoal was the only alley cat in the house who had any tolerance for Tallulah, our Siamese.

Old Charcoal had had a life of vicissitudes, and he had known the great. He survived a particularly virulent distemper epidemic by rousing himself at intervals from a terrible lassitude and walking twice around the room before lying down again to pant for breath.

We were living in Washington then, and Charcoal's fortune caught the fancy of Bascom Timmons, the Texas-born newspaper correspondent who used to get a complimentary vote for the Vice Presidential nomination every time the Democrats met in convention.

Timmons had sixteen cats of his own, and knew cat quality when he saw it. Charcoal used to get post cards from Texas whenever Timmons went to Houston to visit his home newspaper office — and once a card arrived addressed to Charcoal from Tokyo in Japan.

Since Charcoal had developed a sixth sense about Washington city traffic, we thought of him as accident-proof. But when we brought him to live in the country in Connecticut, a speed-crazy motorist got him.

I am writing this column about cats because I wouldn't know how to write about the pretty twin girls whose funeral I will be attending before these words can be printed. But when you are driving this New Year's holiday, slow it down, brother, slow it down. You may kill something more than a cat.

Dear Abby

The Blame Is Not Yours

DEAR ABBY: My wife is in the bedroom crying her eyes out. It all started when our son Joey had his 16th birthday. All he wanted was a car. We told him he would have to wait until after high school because we had read so much about teenagers getting killed in cars. I am now 60 and my wife is 50. We were not young when we had Joey. He is our only child and we wanted the best for him. He was always such a good boy. Well, today a police officer came to our door and said our son had stolen a car and, when the police gave chase, he took to the highway and turned over in a ditch. Joey is now lying in the morgue. I think we will live through the funeral. I still can't believe our baby is gone. Oh, Abby, if we had given him a car when he wanted it, he would be alive today. God have mercy on us. Please print this as a lesson to other parents.

DEAR MIKE: No, I'd say it was more of a fish tale! If the cat gets hungry enough, I like any other cat — he'll eat meat.

DEAR ABBY: While I was sleeping my wife went through my wallet. She found a piece of paper with a woman's name and telephone number on it. She carried on like a lunatic and accused me of everything in the book. I was boiling mad because I have never cheated on my wife and she had no reason to make such accusations. I didn't bother to explain that the woman whose name she found does fine embroidery and I had planned to have some nice things made for my wife's birthday. We haven't spoken for a week — except in front of the children. Why are some women so foolish? Help me settle this once and for all.

A North Carolina minister recalled visiting an old mountain woman in a primitive log cabin shortly after he had graduated from divinity school. She offered him a swig of home-made corn liker, but he told her he didn't drink. Then she produced some chewing tobacco, but he confessed he didn't chew.

"For Heaven's sake, I suppose!" gasped the old woman.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

The old year passes into oblivion Monday at midnight. With it goes broken promises, foolish deaths, petty jealousies, mercenary attitudes, mismanagement, conniving schemes, and immoral minds.

What will 1963 bring? Probably more of the same, and more, unless we realize morally we are more wrong than right.

We are a foolish lot. It seems we never rally unless we are taken; we never stop driving crazily unless death butts us in the head; we continue to find fault with the Joneses instead of cleaning out our own house; we never think of others until we get caught in the same situation; we forever put one over on another until we are the subject of the sucker act; we like the little "stories" about others but not about us.

Actually we are always the underdog, the guy and doll who rather ride low on the hog than be shaken loose by a gambling sortie.

There are a few fools left who pull one card for the inside straight. But those are in the minority and more often than not in the poor house.

Very few of us will give credit where it is due and criticism when it is overdue. Perhaps that is why we stand still so often and just watch the cars go by.

It is strange that we make such progress and with all the mistakes we make. Maybe it is because we get the second chance so often.

The coming year offers some of us that opportunity — an opening, so to speak, to promote better things for better people. A lot of us will not be around when 1963 ends. But while we are here lets create a more decent atmosphere to mold 1964.

And a Happy New Year to all.

Our Differences With Britain

There has been considerable confusion and misunderstanding in this country over differences in high policy — of which the Suez problem provided perhaps the outstanding example — between our own government and that of our principal Free World ally, Britain. This has led to grave doubts as to whether the Western Alliance is really strong, or is based on a fragile foundation which might give way under stress, thus presenting the Communists with the greatest of opportunities.

The doubts, also, have been fed by accounts of the much-publicized "Better Red than dead" movement in England, and, most recently, by the pro-Castro demonstrations before the American Embassy in Grosvenor Square. Such events as these could easily lead numbers of Americans, whose knowledge of the British attitude is understandably limited, to conclude that British opinion runs strongly against that of the United States.

The writer of this piece was in London during the Cuban crisis, and it can be fairly stated that such doubts are without a basis.

As an example, something like a thousand people participated in a recent "Ban the bomb" gathering in Trafalgar Square. Something like 200 demonstrated before the U. S. Embassy. Numbers like these, in a city of 7 million people, are microscopic. In any center of large population a few hundred or a few thousand zealots can be enlisted in almost any campaign, no matter how wrong-headed, blind, or erratic.

The attitude in London during the height of the crisis — as expressed by the principal newspapers and responsible members of the government — was, naturally, one of worry and caution. But there was no panic. There was a wonder if the President may have moved too far too fast in his ultimatum. But — and this is the point of over-riding importance — there never was the slightest doubt that, come what might, Britain would support U. S. policy and U. S. action.

In late November, a very clear and unequivocal statement of British position was made by Lord Home, the Foreign Secretary. It has been carried here in the New York Times Magazine. He dismisses the "Better Red than dead" movement as being "both spineless and unnecessary for if we keep our heads and our nerve we need neither dead nor Red." He emphasizes that America bears the chief responsibility for the defense of the free world, "because America is the only country with the strength in resources of wealth and man-power to match Russia." Then he states flatly that the purpose of the Soviets in establishing the missile bases in Cuba was "to alter the balance of nuclear power in their favor by outflanking the defenses of the continental United States."

After this, Lord Home comes to his primary point. He says: "... what we have to do is to recognize that the basic Communist purposes of imposing their system on the rest of the world are consistent and relentless and our freedom depends primarily on American power and American strength. If America is threatened, we are threatened..." In the Cuban situation, therefore, the interest of Britain and the duty of an ally was to support President Kennedy both in the United Nations and outside it; and that is what we did."

British leadership, Lord Home says at the end, "will go to meet the Russians in conciliation as soon as they give their word and as soon as their word is proved in action." No one knows when that day will come. Meanwhile, there should be no question of the reliability of Britain as an ally. Lord Home's words, it is safe to say, reflect the attitude of a majority of thinking British and Common wealth people.

Aspects Of Social Security

By James W. Douthat

Washington — Whatever Congress may or may not do on President Kennedy's new tax program, both employees and employers already face a tax increase for Social Security.

And if Congress should enact the Kennedy medicare program there would be an additional increase for Social Security taxes imposed on employees and employers.

Congress already has approved raising the present 3% percent Social Security tax to 3 1/2 percent on Jan. 1, 1963 — applicable to both employees and employers and to the present $4,800 wage base.

The same increase is to go into effect on Jan. 1, 1966 — and again on Jan. 1, 1968.

Thus, on Jan. 1, 1968, the combined tax on both employees and employers will be 9 1/2 percent — without medicare.

Mr. Kennedy wants to finance a compulsory medicare program by raising Social Security taxes by 1/4 of 1 percent each on employees and employers — and by broadening the taxable wage base from $4,800 to $5,200 of annual earnings.

This poses the all-important question: How much are employees and employers willing to be taxed for Social Security benefits?

This question is of vast significance because the liberals each election year — and sometimes in between — launch campaigns for sweetening up the Social Security benefits.

These campaigns more often than not have been successful — and there is no indication that this zeal will diminish in future years.

long as the economy operates below maximum levels of production and employment.

This position is directly counter to the view held by a number of legislators that unnecessary government spending should be terminated so as to ease the way to desirable tax rate reform, such as the Herlong-Baker bill.

These members of Congress point out that adoption of the AFL-CIO recommendations would involve huge increases in the prospective federal deficits, gigantic additions to the present $300 billion of federal debt, and the risk of ruinous inflation.

The opinion was expressed in some quarters that this display of fiscal irresponsibility should convince a good many legislators that they should no longer support the AFL-CIO legislative program.

Administration Opposes Purge

One of the arguments advanced by Administration supporters against "unpacking" the House Rules Committee — and reverting to 12 members instead of the present 15 — is that this would necessitate a "purge" of the three new members.

The three were added at the beginning of the 87th Congress in 1961, at the insistence of the Kennedy Administration, in order to facilitate action on its legislative program.

Now, unless further action is taken to continue the "packed" committee, it again will be composed of 12 members.

The contention that this would amount to a "purge" is ironical in view of the fact that one of the moves seriously considered by the Administration — before enlarging the committee was decided upon — was an attempt to remove Rep. Colmer (D-Miss.) from the committee.

A Colmer purge was urged by the liberals on the ground that he did not support the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in 1960. He pointed out, however, that he supported other Democrats for President and Vice President, and therefore could not be classed as a party deserter.

Some southern Democrats promptly countered with a threat to challenge the selection of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Democrat from Harlem, as chairman of the House Labor Committee. He had supported President Eisenhower in the 1956 election.

Whatever the reason, the move to purge Rep. Colmer collapsed and, instead, three new members were added.

Inside You And Yours

Food For Thought

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

Soft-pedal those claims about the queen bee's royal jelly and organic foods restoring your youthful vigor!

That new health may be more in your mind than your mouth. Imagination plays funny tricks when you want something to come true.

Some Newburgh, New York, citizens opposed fluoridation. When it began, laundries complained that washed clothes came out dirty. A soft drink bottler whined about the odd flavor of his soda pop. Kidney ailments flared up. Hundreds squawked about the water's sick-making taste.

All this before a single drop of fluoridated water poured through the pipes! Delays had forced the project a month behind schedule!

Another Wonder-Worker

The sharp, pointed hypodermic needle also works wonders. When an English doctor injected a colored solution into the knee joints of 200 arthritis sufferers, crutches were tossed aside. Wheel-chaired victims walked again. Relief lasted for months.

The syringe turned out to have a false bottom which stored the solution when the plunger was pushed. A phony shot had wrought miracles!

A—Yes, you may. Notify the VA office where you pay your premiums of your intention to allow your dividend to remain on deposit.

RUTH JACOBSON,

Recently, 49 Nebraska church-goers volunteered to test new pills to earn money for the church school. The instructions called for a larger dose each day.

Bad Effects

Half the group complained that the pills made them drowsy, dizzy or lightheaded. Some began seeing double. Headaches thrived.

One volunteer had to stop driving. Several gave up; they couldn't stand the side effects.

Yet each pill contained only harmless sugar with a smidgen of quinine to give a bitter taste!

Phony Cure

Every intern's seen heart attack victims who felt cured after electrocardiogram tests — which they mistook for an electrical treatment.

Yes, imagination could easily explain why you feel like a king after downing that royal jelly, even though it's no better than common, ordinary jam!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Veteran's Guide

Q—I have moved and left a forwarding address with the local post office. Will my GI insurance dividend due in January be forwarded?

A—Yes. Postal regulations now permit the forwarding of your dividend check.

Q—I understand a new law provides for GI Bill education and training for peacetime veterans. What should I do to find out if I am eligible to take advantage of this?

A—If you have a service-connected disability, you should register as soon as possible with your nearest Veterans Administration office for an appointment with a VA counselor. This is the first step.

Q—I am Korean Conflict veteran. How much longer do I have to apply for a GI home loan?

A—The minimum deadline for Korean Conflict veterans is January 31, 1965, and the maximum deadline is January 31, 1975. For all dates between the deadline is governed by the individual veteran's length of active service.

Q—Can I allow my annual GI insurance dividend to remain on deposit to meet future premiums?

A—Yes, you may. Notify the VA office where you pay your premiums of your intention to allow your dividend to remain on deposit.

HANUKKAH

Hanukkah is a time of joy. For every Jewish girl and boy.

There is no great big Christmas tree, Just a Menorah you shall see.

Hanukkah is the "Festival of Light," A time for gifts and candles bright.

A boy found a flask of oil. While cleaning the Temple from war time soil.

The miracle of Hanukkah past, When the little bit of oil did last and last.

But the hero of Hanukkah to me, Will always be brave Judah Maccabee.

WHITE Each new year is like a new-fallen snow — un-
NEW marked until errant footsteps destroy its gleam-YEAR ing splendor. But short-lived is that spell of peace and perfection. Soon the newness is trampled out, the same old trails show themselves again.

Tearing the last page off the calendar can change the year. But, it cannot change the MAN. We'll make of each new year just what we have made of the old ones — unless we direct our lives anew toward God and neighbor, unless we re-evaluate destiny and self.

In this New Year don't expect a blanket of perfection to hide the old failures. But seek the better Way. The Church helps men discover new trails . . . and follow them with new hope . . . to a new vision of life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake.
(3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

One of the joys of childhood was the "surprise birthday party" for your friends. Usually the friend ended up not speaking to any of you because of all the giggling and whispering that ceased whenever she came near—but all was forgiven when the big day came. And one of the penalties of growing older is that people stop having birthdays, even friends who are younger than you are.

Which made it all the more exciting to be invited to the surprise birthday party for Alice Groner—and really a surprise, too! for which her husband Al deserves some sort of a medal. In the first place for thinking of it, the second place for arranging it, and the third place for keeping it a surprise.

And it really was. You can tell. When a woman has an appointment to have her hair done on Friday and arrives on Thursday night without having changed the appointment, she was surprised! But she looked wonderful, anyway, and everybody had a wonderful time.

Except me. Midway through the dinner, Bill Toewe challenged me to write up one party describing what the men wore for a change. That's not easy. Bill himself offered no target—conservative dark suit with a tie in good taste, a tie tack which has largely supplanted the tie clasp, black shoes and black socks.

An unofficial survey revealed that 99 per cent of the men were wearing black socks—and only under pressure did Art Scheibel reveal he was wearing red ones—well maroon, anyway.

Otherwise, you'd just have to keep repeating: Dark suits—oxford grey, charcoal brown, blue pinstripe—handsome but hard to describe. Except, of course, for Monty Crowe whose dinner jacket really made it seem like a party. And Frank LaBar with a grey and white striped shirt instead of the regulation white, but it's no fun to tease him because he and Hilda are leaving for Florida at the crack of dawn today.

Of course, the host came under special scrutiny, which revealed that he was wearing a handsome silverish tie with a sort of red swirl in it and a real pearl tie tack which Alice had bought for him in Hawaii. Beyond that I can't think of anything startling, and whether the men were wearing the shorts with ants on them or not only the wives who thought they'd be cute stocking presents could tell.

Anyway, it was a good party that took everybody back to the days when birthdays were something to look forward to—and if we get a chance to talk privately, I'll tell you what the women wore—especially Kate Mullins' floor length mohair, and Hilda's dress of scrolled ribbon embroidery. Christmas present from Frank.

Working Mothers Blamed For Crime Boost

Vienna (AP) — Prosperity boosts the crime rate, a leading Austrian criminologist said. In the last 50 years the number of crimes in Austria has increased by 50 per cent, says Dr. Roland Grassberger, the new rector of Vienna's University.

He says the main reasons for the increase of the crime rate are the welfare state and the employment of mothers.

Grassberger is the head of the Institute for criminology in Vienna.

He says that in the 1890s, when the general living standard was very low, 133 of 100,000 people were convicted as criminals. With Austria's unprecedented economic boom, now the figure has risen to 196.

Statistics also show that the number of thefts has doubled since the time of mass unemployment during the economic world crises.

The number of people arrested for sex offenses is even five times as high as it was 70 years ago. Juveniles have the largest share in the increase of criminality, he says. Most of the juvenile delinquents come from well-to-do families and have never suffered any needs.

The dean blames the fact that many mothers have jobs. He says mothers nowadays simply have not enough time for their children.

They try to compensate the lack of care with presents and ample allowances. However, there is nothing more important for the development of a child than a harmonious family life, says Grassberger.

Craig Myers To Be Baptized On Sunday

Candlelight, Morning Star Follow Moravian Tradition

Newfoundland—The annual Christmas Eve service held at the Moravian Church was highlighted by a pageant and candlelight service with members of the church and Sunday School participating. Elaine Hinton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hinton, of Panther, was soloist for "Morning Star," around whom the candlelight service is presented.

Candles were distributed to the congregation by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Behn, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Feigel, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Wardell Robacker and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Schelbert.

The service opened with the singing of a Christmas hymn with Mrs. Christine McLain at the organ. There was a prayer of Christmas, and readings, "The First Christmas," by Inger Madson, and "Christmas Child," by Shirley Stevens.

A pageant, "A Christmas Lesson," directed and written by Mrs. Martha Smith, was presented by the Sunday School. Melissa Burdick served as narrator, and Shirley Smith was the teacher. The Sunday School class in the pageant included Cindy Bloss,

Women Take Over Embassy In London

London (AP) — The Costa Rican embassy in London is run now entirely by women.

The feminine invasion started earlier this year. Mrs. Maria del Carmen Gutierrez Chamberlain de Chittenden (more popularly known as Mimi Chittenden) became Costa Rica's ambassador here, the first woman ever made ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Then, in November, the two male officials of the embassy departed. Their places were taken by Miss Teresa Lobo — Abraham as cultural attache and Miss Ofelia Rodriguez — Quirios as civil attache in charge of the consulate.

Says Mrs. Chittenden: "It might seem unusual for an embassy to be run by women, but I can assure you we are all thoroughly efficient."

Ham And Bright Buffet Set For '63

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

If anyone had told me at the beginning of last week that I would be spending Christmas in Philadelphia, I certainly wouldn't have believed him! My sister-in-law and I had to rush my father-in-law to a hospital and we barely had time to throw a toothbrush in a suitcase. Those of you who have asked me how far in advance I write my columns — I guess know the answer now.

My father-in-law is coming along fine but will be in the hospital for a while and I know he would appreciate a card from those of you who know him. The address is: Earl Pipher, Graduate Hospital, Room 718, 19th and Lombard Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

I hope your Christmas dinner was better than ours. We had a club sandwich and chocolate sundae. The city of Philadelphia closes up for the holiday so that employees can be with their families which is nice for them. The streets are so desolate that the few people you do see make you wonder why they're not home, too.

We spent the nights seeing the newest movies and had a special treat Christmas night when we saw the opening of the Shipstads & Johnson Ice Follies. After Philadelphia, the show opens in New York, and if you have a chance to see it, don't miss the opportunity for it is breathtaking and spectacular.

Although I didn't have a chance to wish you a Merry Christmas, I can extend best wishes to you for the New Year, and hope that it is one filled with happiness.

It is traditional to serve ham for New Years. To brighten the platter, add pretty green pears that give the holiday look; this is pictured above.

Ham With Green Candied Pears and Cranberries

Select 4 to 6 medium-sized pears with stems. Combine 2 cups sugar, 1½ cups water, and ½ cup vinegar in a large saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to simmer. Add about 5 or 6 drops green food coloring, one 2-inch stick cinnamon, and 6 whole cloves.

Pare but do not core the pears. Slice off bottom of each pear to make a flat base. Carefully lower pears into simmering syrup. Add 1 cup freshly washed cranberries. Simmer 5 minutes. Cover, turn off heat, and cool. Turn pears several times to color evenly. When cool, lift each pear and the cranberries from syrup with a slotted spoon and drain on waxed paper.

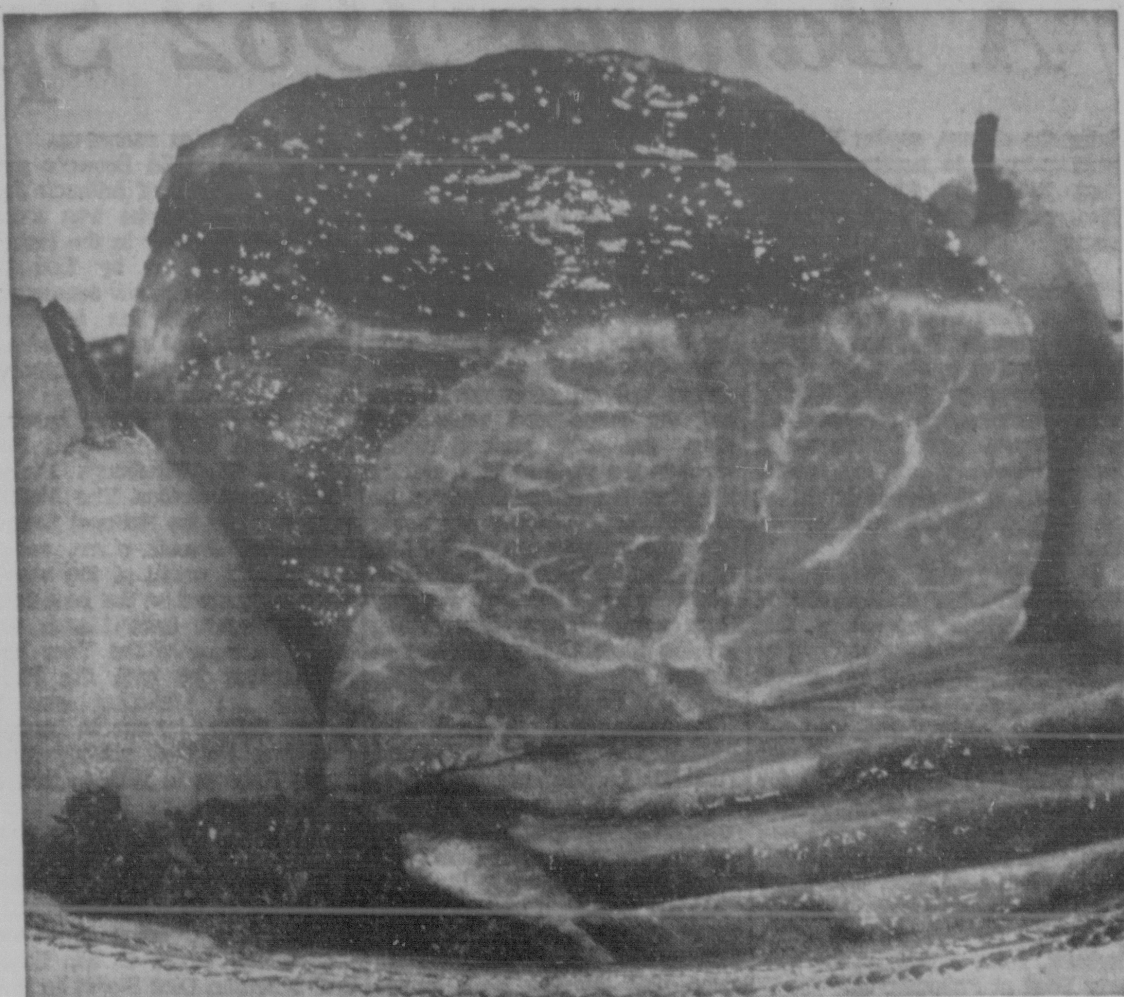

Bring syrup to a boil and cook and stir until thickened. Remove a fully cooked ham from the can and pour syrup over ham. (If you prefer to serve it hot, heat the ham in a 350 degree oven for about an hour, then remove from oven and pour syrup over). Arrange the pears around the ham placed on a platter. Tie the green pear bells together with fresh parsley decked with candied cranberries.

If you're serving a buffet, this would be a tasty dish for "samplers".

Scalloped Corn and Dried Beef
Yield: 6 servings
¼ pound package sliced dried beef
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
1 pound can (2 cups) cream style corn
1 cup cracker crumbs
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Melt butter in a 1 quart baking dish in a hot oven (400). Add onion to melted butter and return to oven to cook 5 minutes.

dish to oven to cook 10 minutes. Remove from oven. Cut dried beef into pieces. Cover with boiling water. Drain immediately. Add dried beef, corn, ½ cup of the cracker crumbs, milk, salt, and pepper to butter and onion. Combine well. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top. Bake in a hot oven (400) 20 minutes.

If you haven't made up your mind what to serve New Year's Eve, make this tuna pate. It's not only pretty, but delicious. Betty Miller served it last Christmas, and after getting the recipe from her I made it, too. It shapes easily and I found it's enough to make two "trees".

Betty's Holiday Tuna Pate

1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
2 tablespoons chili sauce
2 tablespoons minced parsley
¼ cup minced onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon tabasco sauce
3 cans (6½ or 7 oz. each) tuna
3 to 4 tablespoons mayonnaise
Pimiento
Capers
Parsley sprigs

With an electric beater, beat together the cream cheese, chili sauce, parsley, onion, Worcestershire and tabasco. Turn tuna into colander or strainer to drain; gradually add drained tuna to cream cheese mixture, beating until thoroughly blended. Chill 8 hours or overnight in tightly covered container.

To shape tuna pate into Christmas tree shape, mold tuna mixture on serving plate into a pyramid. Cover with the mayonnaise, using a small spatula. Make garlands around tree by alternating pimiento strips and capers in two rows around tree. Cut star out of pimiento with miniature star cutter and secure with toothpick on top of tree. Arrange parsley sprigs around bottom of tree. Makes 4 cups tuna pate.

It's not too late to open your CHRISTMAS CLUB at ESNB

WATCH YOUR STEP!

That step off the curb is a crucial step. Death could be waiting in the street. Last year, 112 pedestrians were killed when they tried to cross the street in the middle of the block. Hundreds more were injured, bruised or crippled.

Watch your step! Cross only at intersections or pedestrian crosswalks... and look both ways before you take that crucial step—the one off the curb.

Cynthia Rice Baptized In Stone Church

Mount Bethel — Cynthia Louise Rice, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rice, Stone Church, was received into the baptized membership of Trinity United Church of Christ, Stone Church, at a special Christmas morning service. The rites were administered by the pastor, Rev. Richard J. Keen.

Cynthia was born Sept. 23 at the Monroe County General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

Did You Write A Thank You? It Helps Composition, Too

By VIVIAN BROWN

Friendships have flowered and been broken by letters, but a great omission is the letter that is never sent. Even the good friend who insists "It was silly of you to write that thank-you note," is secretly pleased that you did.

"The thank-you letter should have a spirit of friendliness, love, fondness, affection," advises Susan Nichols Pulsifer of Brunswick, Maine.

She first introduced at Bryn Mawr College the idea of teaching composition through the personal letter. And in her book, "Creative Writing Through Letters," she illustrates that even high school students can become good in the art of writing a letter. Many letters used in the book were written by students of Oak Grove School in Maine, and the book has been the subject of college discussion panels.

"The high school age is the most social, when young people want to make friends and get in touch with friends. It is important to know how to write a letter," she says, pointing out that as one of her students said, "When one writes a letter he writes for a distinct person... we forget ourselves and the bashful and hesitant ways we have while speaking."

But some young people feel they do not know how to write a letter, so they don't try. Boys treat it as a chore.

"It isn't their fault. Boys ignore the gracious act because they live in an age when there is little time for such things, and the subjects of their school compositions are likely to be far removed from their lives and experiences," she explains.

They could master thank-you notes with a little practice, she says, and "it is too bad their compositions aren't personally related to their lives, instead of being stereotyped."

Young people often are motivated to write letters when they are hopelessly in love, sick or discouraged, she says. But that is the time to write but file your letter in Time, a safe place, "exhuming it in a week, month, a year," she says.

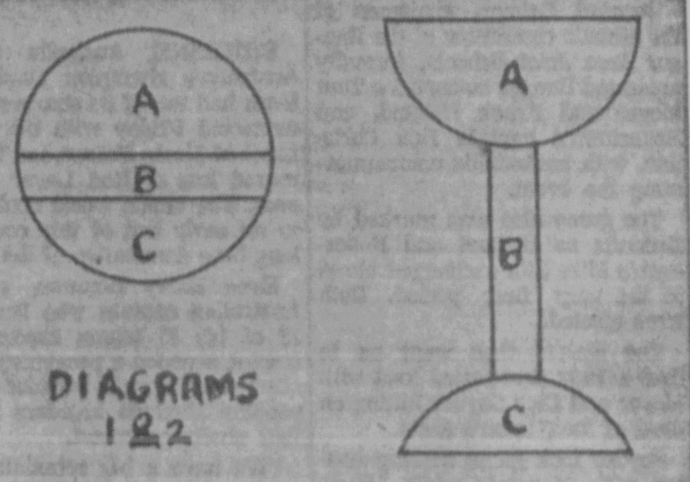

Favorite writers, poets, actresses offer revealing personal letters worth reading — Elizabeth and Robert Browning, Dickens, Ben Franklin, Keats, Thackeray, Ellen Terry and Bernard Shaw.

If you have doubts about letter writing, practice may reveal real talent, as Mrs. Pulsifer's students illustrated. Letters in her book are to and from just about anything — a coat writing to a dress; an ocean writing to a lake; a Picasso painting writing to Mona Lisa; an alley cat to a Persian Kitten; from Brooklyn to Maine. Students also stepped into the pages of history, writing as if they were Cleopatra, Caesar, Cyrano de Bergerac, Roxanne.

Young people who claim they cannot write a good letter, could practice writing to imaginary people, trees, snow, a pet alligator or hamster. They could be surprised at the words they release with their pens.

Sometimes or other, you're likely to receive a gift that leaves you speechless. What should I say? How can I say it? Are the thoughts that run through our minds for hours, days. Though the heart is full, in the end there could be that same old block to writing — the lack of confidence — so that we cannot say more either in person or on paper than "thanks."

Highlights Of A Banner 1962 Sports Year In Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sonny Liston won the world heavyweight boxing championship... Harold Johnson twice defended successfully his light heavyweight title... Penn State, Villanova and West Chester earned bowl football games... Arnold Palmer again won the Golfer of the Year... Villanova, St. Joseph's and Temple played in major basketball tournaments... Westminster was named national small college basketball champion... The Philadelphia Warriors were moved to San Francisco... These were some of the highlights of a banner 1962 sports year in Pennsylvania.

HOOP CHAMPS — Bob Cousy drives past Lakers' Frank Selvy in NBA title game at Boston in April. Celtics won their fourth straight pro basketball crown.

In The Rose Bowl See Quarterbacks As Prime Factor

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The quarterbacks obviously will be a prime factor in the Wisconsin-Southern California Rose Bowl battle and it would appear the Trojans have a 2-1 edge.

Wisconsin's senior signal caller, Ron VanderKelen, whose running and passing were highly instrumental in the Badgers' successful season, is the Badgers' lone hope in the role of quarterback.

Southern Cal has two, Pete Beathard and Bill Nelsen, who have alternated in each of the team's 10 straight wins.

Generally one or both were hot but at least Coach John McKay, as he noted Friday, could switch a cold one for a warm one.

Cities Development

Wisconsin coach Milt Bruhn repeatedly has cited the development of VanderKelen into a top half this season for the Badgers' Big Ten Conference title.

VanderKelen completed 91 of 168 passes for 1,181 yards and 12 touchdowns, and carried the ball 63 times for 252 yards. He was second in yardage only to fullback Ralph Kurek. He did have seven passes intercepted, however.

Beathard, a junior, is perhaps a better player on the many pass-run option plays his team employs. He threw 35 passes and completed 46 for 753 yards, with only one interception, and six touchdowns. He was also second to Willie Brown in running yardage, with 267 in 92 trips with the ball.

Nelsen, a senior, ran the ball for 132 yards and connected on 34 of 74 passes for 619 yards and eight touchdowns. He had two throws intercepted.

Kennedy's Mandate Accepted

CHICAGO (AP)—The governing Council of the U.S. Track and Field Federation "gladly" accepted Friday President Kennedy's mandate for settlement of the long feud for control of amateur athletics between the AAU and the NCAA-backed federation movement.

The track federation's action was the first formal move by either of the warring factions since President Kennedy on Dec. 12 called for an end of the squabble and last Monday appointed Gen. Douglas MacArthur arbitrator.

The 15-member Council, after a day-long session, issued a statement which also said it "is pleased to accept the designation by the President of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as a referee in this matter and is prepared to agree to other arbitration panel members as proposed by the President in his Dec. 12 press conference."

"The basic issue for arbitration is a method whereby the AAU and the federation can conduct their own program separately through the period agreed upon without threat of eligibility for international competition," the statement added.

The reference to the "basic issue" involves principles the federation contends were agreed upon in a "peace" meeting in New York between the rival groups Nov. 12-13. This meeting was called at the request of Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

The federation charged the AAU subsequently ignored a vital proposal calling for compromise through a coalition which by 1964 would gain recognition by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, world governing body for track.

Drives Faster Than He Throws

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Don Drysdale, fireballing Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher who can throw a baseball upwards of 90 miles an hour, pleaded guilty Friday to driving a car even faster—45 miles per hour.

later the champ, saying Philadelphia refused to accept him and that his police force harassed him, packed and moved to Chicago.

Outpoints King

Johnson outpointed Doug King of New York in his first defense of the year, in May, and a month later traveled to Germany where he disposed of Gustave Scholz. The champion, in an out-of-the-ring dispute with his manager, Pat Olivieri, settled the matter by retaining George Gainford as an advisor. Olivieri remained as manager.

Penn State won the Lambert Football Trophy, emblematic of eastern college supremacy, and was invited to the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., for the second straight year. Dave Robinson, giant Tittany Lions' end, won All-America honors. Villanova also was invited to a bowl game for the second straight year. Victors 17-9 over Wichita in the 1961 Sun Bowl, the Wildcats from Philadelphia's Main Line, won 7 and lost 2 the past season and met Oregon State and its All-America quarterback, Terry Baker, in the Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia.

Cement Bowl

West Chester failed for the first time in several years to win the State College Conference title, but posted a 7-2 mark that earned a trip to the inaugural of the Cement Bowl at Allentown. The Rams won in a romp over Hofstra. West Chester fullback Joe Iacono won Little All-America honors for the second straight year, and was named All-State for the third year in a row.

The uninvited Susquehanna Crusaders finished unbeaten in football for the second consecutive year, the only perfect record team in the state in 1962. During the past two seasons, only a tie in 1961 with Oberlin scans the Susquehanna grid record. Its Larry Kerstetter made the All-State team as a halfback. Slippery Rock defeated East Stroudsburg for the State College Conference crown.

Eagles Flop

In professional football, the Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League champions in 1960, Eastern runners-up in 1961, suffered crippling injuries through out the season and fell into the basement.

On the other side of the state, however, the Pittsburgh Steelers experienced their best season since 1947, winning eight games and finishing second in the East. The Steelers will be in the NFL Runner-Up Bowl game next month at Miami, Fla., against the

Knights Lose, 51-49

NAZARETH—The Green Knights of Nazareth dropped under the 500 mark for the first time this season when they suffered their fourth defeat in seven games, 51-49, here against the Nazareth Blue Eagles last night.

Pen Argyl lost the game within the last minute of play after leading during the latter stages of the final session.

The Blue Eagles took a 13-10 first-period lead in the Lehigh-Northampton League hoop battle, but the Knights came back in the second period on the strength of some strong shooting by Roger Snyder and Dave Turtzio who combined to get the visitors even at halftime, 22-22.

Nazareth outscored the Knights of Coach Frank Vari in the third quarter by a 14-9 margin, but Pen Argyl again rebounded from that deficit to overtake the homesters in the final session before finally succumbing in the waning portion of the battle.

Snyder's 18 points was high for the Knights, while Turtzio added 16 in a losing cause. For the winners, Glen Engler took game laurels with a 21-point effort while Al McNear notched 18.

The Knights showed a keen eye at the foul line, hitting on 11 of 11, while Nazareth connected on 9 of 12.

In the preliminary JV contest, Nazareth also took the measure of the little Knights with a 49-35 triumph.

Giants Fresher, Packers Loose

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants are fresher physically and mentally than last year and the Green Bay Packers are loose in the words of the rival coaches in Sunday's National Football League title rematch at Yankee Stadium.

Allie Sherman, coach of the Giants, pointed out that his club was drained emotionally and mentally by its tough final five games in 1961. Sherman, carefully explaining he was not trying to alibi the 37-0 beating of last New Year's Day, assessed his 1962 squad after Friday's workout at Yankee Stadium.

"We are a stronger club for many reasons," said Sherman. "Y. A. Title has had a second year of exposure to our personnel. The other new men we got last year have improved."

The Giants found the Stadium turf firm enough for Sherman to announce he planned to use cleats if there was no change in the weather. It was sunny and in the high 30s with increasing cloudiness forecast for Saturday and Sunday but no drastic change in temperature.

Sherman said he was sure Title was in good condition, recovered from the back bruise he suffered Dec. 16. He also said Ralph Guglielmi, Title's stand-in, was ready for duty.

All-American Bowl May Be On Way Out

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two things are needed Saturday night to save the All-American Bowl football game—a profit and a small school victory.

This will be the fifth game. None of the others have made money. Now it must do better than break even or it is likely dead. Sponsors have switched to a night game, gambling that Tucson won't be as cold as it can be at this time of year.

A crowd of 14,000 is expected. The game won't be televised.

The game is built on the theory that the top football players from the nation's small schools can hold their own with the best from the country's major powerhouses. But the small school stars have lost every time.

This year they may win. Dave Nelson of Delaware is coaching the small school team for the third time. He knows he can't run against the toughest college line-men in the land. So the attack is being built around two fine passers and a flock of outstanding receivers.

Quarterback Jon Anabo of Fresno State and Ron Giordano of Bucknell both set school passing records this fall. Between them they threw for 2,600 yards.

One of their receivers will be Willie Richardson of Jackson, Miss., State, one of the stars of last week's North-South game.

McMahon Fired As Hoop Coach

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Zephyrs of the National Basketball Association dismissed Jack McMahon as coach Friday and replaced him with Zephyr team captain Bob Leonard.

McMahon, who started the season with a two-year contract, was fired after directing the Zephyrs through 38 league games this season.

western division runner-up.

Quarterback Ed Brown's passing, the running of fullback John Henry Johnson, who was second best ground gainer in the league; field goal kicking by Lou Michaels, who set a new season record of 24 with his left-footed boots, and a hard rushing defense, sparked the Steelers' resurgence.

Great Strides

On the major league baseball scene, both the Philadelphia Phillies and the Pittsburgh Pirates made great strides. The Phillies moved out of the National League cellar into seventh place, and in the last six weeks of the season were recognized as the best team in the circuit. Gene Mauch was voted Manager of the Year honors for his job with the Phils.

Pitcher Art Mahaffey won 19 games, failing by one to become the first Phillies' pitcher since Robin Roberts in 1955, to win 20 games.

Pittsburgh advanced from sixth to fourth place but the Pirates' front office obviously wasn't satisfied and after the season started a house cleaning that sent Capt. Dick Groat to St. Louis, first baseman Dick Stuart to Boston, and third baseman Don Hoak to the Phillies. Also traded were pitchers Jack Lamabe and Diomedes Olivo. The Pirates received pitcher Don Cardwell and shortstop Julio Gotay from St. Louis; pitcher Don Schwall and catcher Jim Baglioni from Boston, and outfielder Ted Savage from the Phillies. Pittsburgh, says the front office, is going with youth in 1963.

In college basketball, Villanova and St. Joseph's played in the post season NCAA tournament, Villanova losing in the eastern final to a Wake Forest team that eliminated St. Joseph's in the semi-finals. Temple and Duquesne were invited to the National Invitation Tournament in New York. Temple upset favored Providence before bowing out against Loyola, while Duquesne went to the semi-finals.

Battle Boston

Professional basketball found the Philadelphia Warriors finishing second in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association and carrying Boston to the last second of the seven-game playoff before losing by a field goal. Then, owner Eddie Gottlieb sold the franchise for a reported $850,000 and the team was switched to San Francisco. The infant American Basketball League moved its New York franchise into Philadelphia where it has been an artistic success but a financial flop.

Two Marks Smashed In Eastburg's Loss

TWO Tom Waring Memorial gymnasium scoring records were broken in last night's game in East Stroudsburg when the Cavaliers led victims to the mighty Warriors of Wilson, 95-65.

Wilson scored the most points by one team, erasing the previous high mark of 83 set by Hellertown Feb. 6, 1962, and the combined points of both teams of 150 points smashed the previous high mark of 133 in a game won by Hellertown, 78-55, Dec. 16, 1960.

Despite the 30-point difference between the two teams in this Lehigh-Northampton League clash, Wilson actually did not seal the victory until the final period when the Warriors ripped the cords for 35 points while holding Eastburg to 16.

The Cavaliers of Coach Dale Baker took a 16-15 lead at the end of the first period, but trailed at halftime by 42-36. Eastburg held a 28-17 lead with 4:30 remaining in the second period when the Warriors' Brian Saltern dumped in a pair of foul flips to give the visitors a lead which they never relinquished.

Wilson led by 60-49 entering the final canto before the Cavaliers fell apart completely as the Warriors capitalized on steals and interceptions to put the game out of reach.

Bangor Girls Win Opening Hoop Contest

BANGOR—The girls' basketball team of Bangor High School has its own version of "My Fehr Lady"—a lass by name of Brenda Fehr.

She scored 23 points yesterday in launching her team's hoop fortunes this season as Bangor triumphed over Fountain Hill here, 36-17, in the opening game of the Lehigh-Northampton girls' league.

Her 11 field goals and one extra point from the foul line proved six points better than the entire visiting team's total output.

The only other player in the game who hit in double figures was Fountain Hill's Ilona Strelchick who connected for 14 points, all on field goals.

Bangor took a 10-4 opening-period lead and was never headed after that. Fountain Hill tallied but one point in the second period while Bangor hit for 10 more and an insurmountable 20-5 halftime lead.

finished second last season, provided the league's high scorer and most valuable player in Connie Hawkins, and then had to be saved from extinction by a new group which bought the franchise.

Top In Golf

Arnold Palmer again was golf's Man of the Year, winning the most money and capturing most of the major tournaments. Jay Sigel of Philadelphia won the state amateur title, with Mrs. John Dyon of Hazleton taking the women's state amateur.

Villanova once again was a standout in track and field, winning the indoor and outdoor ICA titles, the latter on its own track. Frank Budd of Villanova became the first sprinter in 20 years to win both the 100 and 220 in consecutive ICA outdoor meets.

Budd later turned pro with the Eagles of the National Football League as a flanker back. Villanova's Pat Traynor was voted the outstanding athlete at the annual Penn Relays, winning the 3,000 meter steeplechase and anchoring the winning 4-mile and distance mile relay teams in races about 90 minutes apart.

Penn State's Gerald Norman took the 3-mile run at the Penn Carnival with Villanova's Leon Pras the 120-hurdles, Doug Kerr the javelin and Rolando Cruz trying for the pole vault.

Other of the year's happenings to remember:

Williamsport won the Eastern League baseball pennant, then lost to Elmira in the post-season playoffs when much of its talent was called up by teams in higher classifications.

Robin Roberts, who still lives in suburban Philadelphia, was voted Comeback Player of the Year in the American League where he pitched for Baltimore.

West Chester's Iacono led the state's football teams in scoring with 98 points; Johnstown won the Eastern Hockey League's playoffs and Ron Sepik of Uniontown made the All-State High School football and basketball teams as Uniontown won both the state basketball title and the WPIAL Class A football title, a feat believed unprecedented.

Bangor Trims Panthers

BANGOR—Coach Bill Pensyl's Bangor High Slayers opened their Lehigh-Northampton League campaign with a decisive 70-48 shellacking of Hellertown's Panthers last night here in a contest marked by pre-game ceremonies honoring the first L-N game ever to be played in the new Bangor gym at Five Points.

Bernard Reimer, chairman of the athletic committee of the Bangor Area Joint Schools, formally presented Bangor co-captains Tom Moyer and Frank Holland, and Hellertown's captain Don Christian, with basketballs commemorating the event.

The game also was marked by fistbumps as Holland and Hellertown's Mike Zito exchanged blows in the very first period. Both were ejected.

The Slayers then went on to take a 19-12 first-period lead with Moyer and Dick Snyder hitting on most of their team's shots.

Snyder took game scoring honors with 24 points while Moyer added 15, and Pete Heard notched 10. Hellertown's Neal Curtis was high with 15 and Don Christian, the team's top point-producer, was held to 12.

Christian was well contained through the game by Snyder and Heard.

The Slayers led at halftime by a 30-24 count, and then took complete command of the contest in the third stanza as they outscored the visitors by a 23-9 margin to sew up the win.

Bangor's JV's lost the preliminary affair by a 58-41 count.

Winning Share Will Set Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Each winning share in the National Football League title game between the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants Sunday will come to about $6,000, Commissioner Pete Rozelle estimated Friday. Each losing share will approach $4,000, he said. Both will be records.

Rozelle broke down the financial figures on the game, which will be the richest in football history, at a press conference.

The triumphs were admittedly only additional window dressing, since the Cup already had been

GRAND SLAMMER—Rod Laver of Australia makes a return at Wimbledon in July. He won French, English, Australian and U.S. titles for a tennis grand slam.

Fraser To Retire, Laver Eyes Pros

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Australia's champion Davis Cup team had two of its sharpest teeth extracted Friday with the retirement of Neale Fraser and the rumored loss of Rod Laver to the pros. The tennis world could look to an early end of this country's long time domination of the sport.

Even Harry Hopman, veteran Australian captain who has seen 12 of his 15 teams capture the trophy, sounded a pessimistic note after completing a 5-0 rout of the popular Mexican invaders in the 1962 challenge round.

"We have a big rebuilding job ahead of us," he said. "Our outlook for the next year is the least promising since World War II."

Fraser and Laver, two left-handers who have been part of Australia's seemingly unending line of champions, scored final singles victories on the Milton Court Friday which wrapped up another Davis Cup sweep for this tennis-minded nation.

Fraser staged another rousing rally in beating Rafael Osuna 3-6, 11-9, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, while Laver had to produce some of his finest tennis and most serious application in downing Antonio Palafox 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6.

The triumphs were admittedly only additional window dressing, since the Cup already had been clinched on the first two days, but the difficulty with which they were achieved gave proof that the Mexicans will be formidable factor in the next few years.

Fraser announced at the closing ceremonies that he was retiring from major tennis competition. "I do it with a tear in my eye," the 29-year-old former Wimbledon champion told the crowd of 5,000 in the dusk of the stadium. "I have travelled the world for 10 years playing tennis, and now I feel I would like to stay home a while."

Laver, who swept to the Australian, French, Wimbledon and U.S. championships this year in the first grand slam since Don Budge's feat in 1938, told a press conference that he would issue a statement after the Davis Cup dinner on his future plans.

A former dope addict (played by guest star Inger Stevens) hires "Sam Benedict" (Edmond O'Brien) to get her son back from the foster parents who have reared him in "The Target Over the Hill." Everett Sloane and Arch Johnson are featured, chs. 3 and 4 from 7:30 to 8:30.

"The Gallant Men" moves to Saturdays in the 7:30 to 8:30 time slot on chs. 6 and 7, starting today. In tonight's story P.T. D'Angelo (Eddie Fontaine) falls out with his buddy over a girl.

E. G. Marshall and Robert Reed star in "The Defenders" in a drama about the legal entanglements of a young heiress and her fiancé who appears to be a fortune hunter. Jeremy Slate, Linda Marsh, Sander Sano, Fred Wayne, Bramwell Fletcher and Milt Kamen also star.

Tyrone Power and Susan Hayward star in "Desperate Seige," a taut Western melodrama about a man and woman held hostage by escaped killers at a bleak waystation of the Overland Stage on "Saturday Night At The Movies" from 9 to 11, chs. 3 and 4. Edgar Buchanan also stars.

J. Pat O'Malley stars on "Gunsmoke" from 10 to 11, chs. 2 and 10. James Arness, Amada Blake, Dennis Weaver and Milburn Stone appear in their regular roles.

SUNDAY

With an eye on upcoming New Year celebrations, "O M E R A" Three offers "In Praise of Wine," this morning from 11 to 11:30, chs. 2 and 4. A portion of the program will be devoted to literary commendations of what John Keats called "beaded bubbles." A group of actors will read excerpts from the prose and poetry of such authors as Keats, Thomas Love Peacock, Charles Dickens and Robert Herrick, all in praise of the grape. Robert J. Misch, wine connoisseur, offers tips on selecting and serving wines.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Saturday, December 29
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Do not let the reins loosen up too quickly or too much, a weakness may hold to well-founded plans, decisions. In toto, let not this week-end let the reins loose.
April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Think first, then proceed. Some directives may not be your own, but do not repel or "explode" promptly. The thoughtful one speaks less through disputes, runs smoother course.
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Theory, doctrine, family matters, social community affairs high-lighted. Whatever you do, it should be plausible, well-scheduled, persuade without seeming to.
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Par for the way may include more hazards (minor annoyances) than anticipated. Be ready for anything and less has a chance to hinder you. Religion, solid premises strong.
July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Arrive at the truth thoughtfully but surely. A certain amount of rough-riding is tendency, and only bursts in end. Fine rays for your inborn versatility, energy and good humor.
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Here is a chance for Virgo's originality, and for the desire to display a new hand. In the first, but sure it is wanted, in the last, know that the sincere try is always accepted.
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Inclination to tend to wrong thing or react in contrary fashion, which is not like the innate Libra nature. Exercise restraint while you also buoy up spirits and good will.
October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Yes, you can do it when you try, but WHAT IS IT? Are you trying? This is important to ask self. Some recollection, summarizing in order, avoid scanty fact-finding.
November 24 to December 31 (Sagittarius) — Do not decide too quickly and take care not to indulge favoritism. Recruit your innate inspiration, flashes and ability to organize, and apply for right results. Results? Tops.
December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Transportation, travel, romance, domestic matters, children's and community interests especially sponsored. Your intelligent thinking is in too.
January 22 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Make selections brief but astute, and with little red tape to deter efforts you will be able to place your bid successfully for one, two, more victories.
February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Honest but not brutal could be a trip-up tactic if you do not watch. Also restlessness and concealing your natural assets behind camouflage or false make-up.
YOU BORN TODAY: Your success may come slowly at times, but it is normally lasting. Don't judge by pure materialistic standards, some of your finest gains are through friendships, security in respect, faithfulness, it is more difficult to describe you than your characteristics really are. Attachments to form, and your ever-ready practicality are strong factors. You strive, stay with a project, but also are ready for changes, new faces for the old that needs re-furbishing. You desire knowledge, pick up an unusual amount of wisdom with experience. Trust in God, pray to Him daily; trust friends. Most people do not mean to hurt, but every one can, and does, occasionally, including yourself. Guide, but allow others to work out their way, and as you wish to be independent help others to also. Gifted for building, mining, educating, forestry, agriculture, mfg. Music and children another: you are patient, nurse. Birthdate of Andrew Johnson, 17th U. S. A. Pres.; Wm. E. Gladstone, famed Brit. statesman; Richard Michaels, author.

Coal To Face N-Power Foe

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An electric power executive said yesterday nuclear power would become competitive with coal by 1968.

Philip Spon, chairman of the System Development Committee of the American Electric Power Co., Inc., spoke to the American Association for the Advancement of Science in convention here. Spon predicted the advent of competitive nuclear power, but said coal can continue to maintain its position of importance as a source of electric generation for the balance of the century.

He said the competition will develop in those areas where fossil fuels cost 35 cents per million British Thermal Units or higher. A BTU is a measurement of heat. By the end of this year, Spon said, there will be six nuclear reactors operating in this country with a total net capacity of 660,800 kilowatts. A kilowatt is a unit of power equal to 1,000 watts.

Another 238,100 kilowatts will be provided by seven other reactors now being built, he said. He said four more reactors with a capacity of 738,000 kilowatts are scheduled for completion between 1964 and 1966. Thus, he noted, the total nuclear load capability of the 17 reactors will be 1,655,900 kilowatts.

The Daily Investor

To Catch Tax Cheats

By William A. Doyle

Q. Recently I received my monthly statement from my broker. Enclosed was a card telling me to put my Social Security number on the card and return same. It stated that this was some new Internal Revenue Service rule. This is all news to me. What is the purpose?

A. The purpose is to catch tax cheats. If it's news to you, you haven't been reading the newspapers. And, judging by the amount of mail on this subject, neither have a lot of other people. Millions and millions of people who own securities and who have money in interest-paying savings accounts have received or will receive similar cards.

This is the result of the "taxpayer numbering system" written into the 1962 tax revision law. This requires that each corporation or financial institution paying dividends or interest must report to the Internal Revenue Service payments of $10 or more to individuals.

Under the new setup every taxpayer will have a number. For most people those numbers will be their Social Security numbers. People who do not have Social Security numbers will have numbers assigned to them.

Corporations and financial institutions will be required to put each person's number on the reports to the IRS of dividend and/or interest payments.

The IRS will then feed all the information from all those individual reports into an electronic computer system. That "giant brain" will tell the revenue officers how much interest and/or dividends each person received each year.

The revenue officers will then have a relatively easy way to catch people who have neglected to report taxable interest and/or dividend payments on their Federal returns. So, all corporations and financial institutions must obtain numbers from the people to which they pay dividends and/or interest. Brokerage firms must also get their customers' numbers. When securities are left with a broker (in a "street name") or stocks are in the process of being transferred, interest and/or dividend payments are made to the broker and then credited to the customers' accounts.

Q. I am retired. Because I am over 65 I have a personal exemption from Federal income taxes of $1,200. My taxable income from dividends and interest each year is less than that. So, I am not required to pay any Federal income tax or even to file a tax return.

Some stock I bought years ago now has a market value of about $1,400 more than I paid for it. If I sell the stock, will I have to pay some of my profits to Uncle Sam in taxes?

A. That depends on how high that profit would increase your total taxable income. Your profit would be a long-term capital gain, because you have held the stock for more than six months.
The way the tax form works out, you report only half of your long-term capital gain as ordinary income. So, you pay only half as much tax on your total long-term capital gains as you do on other taxable income. If you were in the 20 percent tax bracket, you would pay 10 percent tax on your net long-term capital gains. For people in higher tax brackets, the tax bite on net long-term capital gains is never more than 25 percent.

If you sell your stock and realize a $1,400 long-term capital gain, your taxable income would increase by $700. If that would lift your total taxable income past $1,200, you will probably have to pay some taxes.

CAN YOU STOP IN TIME?
Here are National Safety Council Test Facts
These drivers see stop sign and cars crossing intersection. They apply brakes at same instant on glare ice at 30 miles per hour. What happens?

MORE FACTS FOR SAFER WINTER DRIVING
Every winter the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards studies the effects of snow and ice, and how to drive safely under the worst conditions. Figures above and below are based on results of their tests.
Packed snow also makes stopping difficult. Regular tires at 30 miles an hour will stop you in 135 feet, snow tires in 117, and reinforced tire chains in 86.
Reduced visibility is also a major winter driving hazard. Do your windshield wipers give clear, streak-free visibility? If rubber is dead, get live rubber refills. Also check wiper arm tension. It should exert one ounce of pressure for each inch of blade length. If arms are weak, blades smear around rain or road muck, and soon ride over snow or sleet—even with new blades. Make sure defroster works.
Rising temperature makes ice more slippery. At 30 miles an hour on ice at 0° a car with regular tires requires 256 feet to stop. At 30° this distance increases to 530 feet.
Also significant is the great effect of speed on braking distances. At only ten miles slower, all of these figures are reduced more than half. At ten miles faster, look out! To cite one example, the average braking distance for regular tires on glare ice is 780 feet at 40 m.p.h.
Always carry a pair of reinforced tire chains. In deep snow or on ice they enable you to go and stop more safely.

DON'T NEED CHAINS, EH?
Always carry a pair of reinforced tire chains. In deep snow or on ice they enable you to go and stop more safely.

ABOVE CHART, provided by the Safe Winter Driving League, illustrates test results by National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards. For each "braking distance" above you should add 33 feet, which is distance traveled during average "reaction time," needed to think and get your foot on brake after seeing a reason to stop. Skidding and reduced visibility are major added hazards of winter.
